

Elf and Safety

Be Bright Be Seen

The snow was falling, silent, crisp and bright,
A happy Elf was dancing, all dressed in white.
All was quiet for miles all around,
But suddenly, what was that? An incredible sound!

Whoosh! Went Santa's sleigh as it hurtled along
Jingle Jangle! Rang the bells, singing their song.
Santa had been practicing for his big night ahead,
The reindeer were rushing home, eager to be fed.

"Ho Ho Ho!" cried Santa, flying through the snow,
"On Dancer! On Prancer! Ho Ho—OH NO!"

For Santa had not spotted the Elf, who was frozen in fear,
His outfit was too white, and suddenly he was near!
Santa stopped his sleigh just in time, barely staying in his chair,
"Phew!" he said, "That was close, I didn't see you there".

"Sorry," squeaked the Elf. "Was I in your way?"
"Ho Ho, no matter," smiled Santa. "But I just have to say...
Next time you play in the snow, please don't wear white"
"I won't," promised the Elf. "From now on, I will wear clothes that are bright".

INSTRUCTIONS

Dress the Elf on the other side of this page in bright clothing so that he or she can be seen when out in the snow and at night

Think about your journey to and from school now that the clocks have gone back and the nights are longer. Darker weather makes it harder for pedestrians to be seen. What type of clothing you might wear? If you want to you can also tell us why.

Don't forget to give your Elf a new name!
